The Florida Legislature adopted House Bill 479 in 2024 that amended Florida Statutes to provide further guidance to local governments pursuing alternatives to transportation concurrency and road impact fees. The amendment included definitions for mobility plans and mobility fees and explicitly stated that any local government may adopt an alternative transportation system based on a mobility plan and a mobility fee.

- Mobility Fees are: (1) a streamlined one-time assessment on new development; (2) intended to offset the impact of new development; and (3) deposited into special revenue funds for Mobility Fees to be expended within a defined benefit district.

Mobility Fees are legally and statutorily required to be spent on Mobility Projects that provide a mobility benefit to the new development that paid the Mobility Fee.
