SUMMARY STATEMENT

Defense Logistics Agency - 1033 Surplus Program

Law enforcement agencies, such as Poulsbo PD, are able to acquire surplus federal property for no cost, with the exception of a nominal renewing annual fee ($400) to access the surplus system. The property is de-militarized and can range anywhere from large vehicles, passenger cars, boats and personal watercraft, golf carts and small electric vehicles, to as small as paper, white boards, and kitchen utensils.

There are certain designations for the property, depending on what it is, where we would either be required to keep it in our inventory for 1 year prior to disposing of it or transferring it to another department or agency, or we can take immediate ownership and custody.

This program has a lot of participants and is extremely competitive. It requires frequent monitoring of the available equipment, and popular in-demand items can sometimes only be available for several hours before it is claimed, so we would need the authorization and ability to sign up and commit to property we need immediately, instead of going through the normal council approval process via meeting agenda and presentations. We respectfully request to obtain equipment deemed necessary by the Chief of Police, with later notification made to the City Council as to what was obtained.
