Executive Summary:

There are four public hearings required for the issuance of the 2023 General Obligation Bonds scheduled for March 21.

Attached is a project schedule by hearing for the 2023 General Obligation Bonds.

Background / Analysis:

The City issues bonds every spring to fund the current year's capital improvement projects listed in the Five-Year Capital Improvement Program.

The City's bond attorney, Kristin Billingsley Cooper, determines the number of bond resolutions required based upon the purpose and classification of the bonds being issued.

Iowa state code classifies general obligation bonds as either General or Essential. General obligation bonds classified as General are limited to $700,000 per project and are subject to reverse referendum within 30 days of adoption of the resolution. General obligation bonds classified as Essential do not have a $700,000 project expense cap and are not subject to reverse referendum.

The public hearings for the 2023 General Obligation Bond issue have a total combined issuance amount of not to exceed $9,710,000 for projects totaling $9,510,000. The difference between the two amounts is the estimated bond issuance costs.
